

Their apparel won't be All-American and that discovery has created quite a dust-up.

By Liz Dorland

CREATED Jul. 12, 2012

Omaha, NE -- Call it a "patriotic plight", team U.S.A. will compete at the 2012 Olympics in uniforms that celebrate the red, white and blue. Their apparel won't be All-American and that discovery has created quite a dust-up.

These days it seems everything we wear is "Made In China". Team U.S.A. will be sporting uniforms designed in the U.S. by Ralph Lauren. Jeffrey Collins said he likes the design. "They're very patriotic, they just look good that's all the Olympics are about with the uniforms you gotta look good," he said.

Read the full story here .